

Whale Watch Report

Q2 2026 13F Holdings Analysis (positions as of June 30, 2026) | Generated: August 28, 2026

Executive Summary

This report compares the five tracked hedge fund managers' latest 13F filings (Q2 2026, all filed August 14, 2026) against your Fidelity portfolio (BrokerageLink, Roth BrokerageLink, and 401k snapshot dated July 31, 2026). The dominant whale themes this quarter: the memory/semiconductor supercycle (MU, TSM, SNDK), the sudden emergence of SpaceX as a reportable institutional position at three of five whales, AI power and data-center energy infrastructure, and bitcoin-miner pivots to AI compute.

Caution Flags

- AMD: Situational Awareness exited entirely; Point72 and Tepper both trimmed. You hold $3,369. The whale consensus on AMD turned negative this quarter.
- SNDK concentration: Aschenbrenner's fund is 28% concentrated in Sandisk and added +119% in Q2, but press coverage (24/7 Wall St., Aug 17) reports the position 'unraveled' sharply in early August. Your Roth is 21.6% concentrated in SNDK - consider whether that single-name risk is intentional.
- SPCX: SpaceX only became 13F-visible this quarter (likely via a listing/tender event). All three whale stakes are brand new - no track record of how they will manage it. Your combined $6,295 predates their entry.
- 13F lag: all data is as of June 30, 2026 and filed August 14, 2026 - whales may have already rotated. SA's disclosed-holdings index showed extreme drawdown behavior in August.
