

Daily Brief

Thursday, May 7, 2026 | 8:00 AM CDT

Market Snapshot

Headline: S&P 500 and Nasdaq hit fresh record highs as U.S.-Iran peace hopes send risk appetite surging and oil prices tumbling.

S&P 500 Futures	+ Record Highs
Nasdaq Futures	+ Record Highs
Dow Jones Futures	+ 0.2%
Crude Oil (WTI)	- Below $100/bbl
10-Year Treasury Yield	- Tumbled

Overnight Developments

 U.S.-Iran Peace Deal Hope

Reports indicate Washington and Tehran may be nearing an agreement to end the two-month war. This has triggered a global risk-on rally and opened the door for Strait of Hormuz normalization, which would restore ~20% of global oil shipments.

 Oil Plunges Below $100

Crude prices fell sharply on optimism that a peace deal could normalize crude supplies. The decline is viewed as bullish for equities, lowering input costs and inflation pressures.

 Norway Hikes Rates

Norway's central bank raised interest rates, causing European stocks to dip slightly. The pan-European Stoxx 600 was down 0.3% at midday London time, reversing some gains.

 Treasury Yields Tumble

U.S. Treasury yields fell sharply as the peace hopes drove a flight from safe-haven assets. Lower yields support equity valuations, particularly growth sectors.

Today's Economic Calendar

Key Data Releases

- Weekly Jobless Claims
- Continuing Claims
- EIA Natural Gas Report

Portfolio Notes

Status: No portfolio CSV file detected at expected location.

Please verify holdings file location for automated tracking.

Market Conditions Impact: The current environment favors risk assets with record equity highs and falling energy costs. Tech-heavy indices leading the charge suggests growth sectors remain resilient despite rate uncertainty.

Key Takeaways

- Risk-on sentiment dominates - global markets near/at record highs
- Oil collapse below $100 relieves inflation pressure, benefits consumers
- Peace optimism is the primary driver - watch for official announcements
- European divergence - Norway hiking while Fed remains on hold
- Bond yields falling alongside oil - classic risk-on/growth setup